

Financial Data Services for Corporate Professionals

Tackling the Challenges of Modern Business Operations

Do you work in Treasury, Risk & Compliance, Corporate Strategy or Investor Relations? SIX recognizes that financial market data is becoming increasingly critical for modern business operations and therefore has developed financial data services to address challenges faced by corporate professionals.

The Challenge

In today's interconnected global economy, corporations navigate unprecedented complexities in financial markets, supply chains, regulatory environments, and competitive landscapes.

The Treasury function contends with interest rate volatility, currency exposure, underperforming cash investments, and liquidity constraints.

Risk & Compliance teams face challenges such as sanctions monitoring, market abuse surveillance, commodity price impacts, and shifting market correlations.

Corporate Strategy struggles with obtaining reliable M&A valuation metrics, inefficient capital allocation, and gaps in competitive intelligence.

Investor Relations teams deal with a lack of peer benchmarking, reactive communications, and valuation gaps from misunderstood expectations.

Market data has transitioned from a luxury to an essential corporate resource. Strategically deploying market data across departments boosts financial performance, mitigates risks, and improves strategic decision-making.

The SIX Solution

SIX offers a competitive edge through its integrated ecosystem of high-quality data solutions designed to empower corporate professionals. By leveraging financial information, we generate actionable insights that drive smarter decisions and measurable business outcomes.

Our pre-packaged content sets, delivered via data feeds, encompass reference, corporate actions, pricing, regulatory & compliance, tax, and indices data to address the key challenges of each target function. They are ideal for corporate professionals looking to integrate market data feeds into their internal applications.

Additionally, we provide display solutions, either to enhance data feeds with display capabilities or as standalone solutions, particularly beneficial for smaller teams not requiring data integration through applications.
